The figure notation is organized into three systems, each with three staves. The top staff of each system contains the melody, while the middle and bottom staves contain accompaniment. The notation uses various symbols: black circles, grey circles, brown circles, yellow circles, green circles, brown triangles, and rectangles of various colors (black, grey, brown, yellow, green). Some symbols are connected by horizontal lines, and some have vertical stems. The first system shows a melody starting with black circles, followed by grey circles, brown circles, and ending with yellow circles and a green circle. The second system starts with a brown triangle, followed by green circles, grey circles, brown circles, and ends with black circles. The third system starts with yellow circles and a green circle, followed by a brown triangle, green circles, grey circles, and brown circles.
